- AEG brings together so many diverse perspectives. I always discover new ways to perceive and understand the challenges we are all working to solve.
 - AEG is a great platform for problem solving in a collaborative manner. It brings industry, government and community together in the same room which in a productive friendly environment.
 - Christopher Andrade
- Awesome event with incredibly smart people. It was great that those in the room had to commit to solving the task that was developed and set a 90 day and 12 month plan.
- Being able to listen and directly discuss with so many industry leaders and highly intelligent individuals is a fantastic opportunity. It was a privilege to play a part Bobby Butler
 - This conversation would yield better results if tables had more time to develop our own gaps to work on. We voted on obstacles that had already been decided instead of talking about obstacles together. This would require a lengthier day, but would elicit more nuanced obstacles by incorporating greater stakeholder perspective. This space represents a major opportunity for innovation and greater group development would foster better ideas. - Seth Gadbois

- It was great discussing with decision makers across the country!
- AEG events are always a good place to meet and engage with people that are keen to work on urgent problems that combine themes of equity, energy, health and climate

Any suggestions? (1/2)

- More elected rep involvement - we are at the point where legislation will be needed to drive change.
- none
- Above. Thank you for hosting. I did get value out of this event and would like to attend again on behalf of CLF.
- The format of the first half of the event is useful. It's good to hear from different stakeholders what they see as the key issue facing us on a particular topic. With that said, I really struggle with the format of the second half. We're tackling really thorny issues and it feels rushed and not useful to try and come up with a solution in 20 minutes that would require additional work from all of us on top of our actual day jobs. No matter what my table discussed, it felt unrealistic, and despite the great people at the table, we didn't have the key expertise or representation from key entities to have a useful conversation on the topic. I would prefer a more general group discussion on the chosen problem statement and more time for networking.

- Provide a break in the middle of the session.
